Kevin Page and his colleagues at IFSD would be interested in working with some students who are interested in macroeconomics and public finance. Although he has not prepared detailed project proposals, he anticipates that there will be a new federal budget released in late March, so work would involve producing some pre-budget analyses. Students might work as a team, with possible topics including the following:

1. Economic Scenarios for the Post-COVID Economic Recovery
2. Fiscal Policy for the Post-COVID Economic Recovery

Past students who have worked at IFSD have seen their work publicised in the media. See, for example, the following op-ed pieces co-authored by students who have done projects at IFSD in the recent past:
